Standlee and Anderson Hay Announce Formation of Standlee-Anderson, Creating the Global Leader in Premium Forage

KIMBERLY, Idaho – September 15, 2026 — Standlee and Anderson Hay today announced the formation of Standlee-Anderson, bringing together two of the forage industry's most respected companies to create the global leader in premium forage.

By combining complementary market strengths, deep industry expertise, and more than a century of combined experience, Standlee-Anderson expands its ability to deliver premium forage, assured supply, and innovative solutions to customers around the world.

Moving forward, Standlee-Anderson will serve as the parent company supporting a portfolio of trusted brands. Each brand will continue to build on its established strengths, customer relationships, and market presence while gaining access to the broader capabilities and resources of Standlee-Anderson.

"This marks an exciting new chapter for both Standlee and Anderson," said Dusty Standlee, Managing Director for Standlee-Anderson. "Our focus has always been serving customers with exceptional products and delivering a premium experience. Together, we're building on that foundation by expanding our expertise, strengthening our supply network, and continuing to invest in the future of premium forage and animal wellness."

Customers will continue working with the brands, products, and people they know and trust, backed by a stronger supply base and the collective expertise of Standlee-Anderson.

"For generations, Anderson has been built on long-term relationships, exceptional quality, and a commitment to our customers," said Mark Anderson, Managing Director for Standlee-Anderson. "Joining Standlee allows us to build on that legacy while creating new opportunities for our customers, growers, employees, and partners. Together, we're well positioned for the future while staying true to the values that have guided both companies for decades."

Built on shared values and complementary strengths, Standlee-Anderson is positioned to invest in innovation, operational excellence, and continued growth while shaping the future of premium forage and animal wellness.
